PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following further preliminary report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Municipal Affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta was presented to the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th January, 1888, and is, together with Part I of Chapter II of the Bill as further amended by the Select Committee, by order of the President, published for general information:—

The Committee having completed the revision of Part I of Chapter II of the Bill relating to the constitution of the Corporation, think it desirable, looking to the special interest which attaches to that portion of the Bill, to submit a preliminary report to the Council showing the modifications which they have made.

1. The Committee have carefully considered the letters of the Trades' Association and the Anglo-Indian Defence Association objecting to the proposed constitution of the Corporation, supported as they are in general terms by the letter of the Chamber of Commerce; but they do not, all things considered, see their way to remodelling the wards of the Corporation as recommended in paragraph 8 of the letter of the Trades' Association, or to introducing the principle of nationality as recommended in the letter of the Anglo-Indian and European Defence Association. They have also come to the conclusion that the number 75, a number which is almost necessitated by the retention of 25 wards, is not so excessive as to constitute any serious objection to the Bill as it at present stands. They have ascertained that at Bombay, where the number of the Corporation has hitherto been fixed at 64, the draft Bill now under consideration proposes to raise the number to 72, and much as the draft Bill has been criticised by the Bombay Corporation, no objection has been taken to the proposed increase in the number of the Councillors.

2. On the other hand, the Committee have come to the conclusion that some change is equitably called for in section 9, as urged in the letter of the Trades' Association, paragraph 11. They find that at every election in Ward No. 12 the Commissioners have been either wholly or partially elected by the vote of the electors, who owe their qualification in that ward to their practising in the High Court or Small Cause Court; and they think that the Commissioners for so influential a ward as No. 12, and one which pays such heavy rates, should be elected by those whose interest in the ward is greater than that of a professional man who only practises in the law courts in that ward. They have therefore attached the professional vote to the ward in which the voter resides, unless he has an office and pays rates for it in the ward in which he works. For the same reason the Committee have on fuller consideration required Fellows and Graduates of the University to vote in the ward in which they reside; otherwise the residents of Ward No. 8—the most populous ward in the town—will practically be deprived of their second member. The question whether a vote should be given to University Fellows and Graduates is one of principle on which the Committee are almost equally divided, and they consider that it should be left by them for the decision of the Council.

3. The Committee have also come to the conclusion that very great weight is due to the objection of the Trades' Association to plural votes as at present conferred by sections 11 to 13 of the draft Bill, though they are of opinion that the equitable solution of the question should be arrived in the opposite direction to that recommended by the Association, viz., by giving a vote to all communities on an equal footing. As this is a very important matter, they desire to give a short account of it and to enter more fully into the reasons which have led them to this

4. The plural vote has hitherto been exercised in Calcutta. It is bestowed by the present Act, directly in section 9, so far as different wards are concerned; but it has also been habitually exercised by Hindu joint families paying Rs. 50 and upwards in rates and taxes, on the ground that each member of the family pays his proportional share of such taxation, and that if five members, say, of a family pay Rs. 200, each pays in effect Rs. 40. Of course it follows that if five members only pay Rs. 100, each pays less than Rs. 25, and all are disqualified; but under such circumstances the existence of these members would ordinarily be kept in the background by the election agents when applying for registration. Such a system is obviously susceptible of great abuses, and sections 11 to 13 were therefore framed with the view of regulating the practice and bringing it within definite and fixed limits; but on fuller consideration the Committee admit that it will still give undue weight to one community, and the inequality should therefore be done away with.

5. But the Committee are very strongly of opinion that the inequality should be removed, not by depriving those who pay the highest rates and taxes of their legitimate influence, but by distinctly recognising the right of those who contribute most to the maintenance of the Corporation to a more potent voice in electing the governing body. It has been the rule in England to recognise the plural vote in measures of local self-government. In the Parish Vestries as constituted by 58 Geo. III, c. 69, and 59 Geo. III, c. 12 and c. 85, the rate-payers can give from one to six votes, a vote being given for every £25 of rating. In the most important unit of local self-government, the Union as constituted by the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834, the governing body consists of the resident Justices, who are nominated by the Government, and of guardians elected by the rate-payers; one vote in the election of guardians is given for every £50 of rating up to a maximum of six votes. Similarly, in the urban districts, constituted local government districts under the Public Health Act of 1875, the members of the Board are elected by owners and rate-payers, plural votes up to a maximum of six votes being allowed: one vote for every £50 of rating.

6. It appears, therefore, that whether the practice hitherto obtaining in Calcutta is looked to, or English legislation, there is ample precedent for allowing plural votes; but the Committee base their decision far more on the intrinsic equity of the principle and its extreme importance in the best interests of a city such as Calcutta. It is difficult to conceive that it can be seriously contended that a person who just pays Rs. 25 is entitled to an equal voice in the election of the Commissioners with the large commercial houses which are the chief factors in the prosperity of the town, or that a landlord of many of the largest and most heavily-rated houses in the town ought to have his vote balanced by that of a clerk in an office living in a house rented at Rs. 25 to Rs. 30 a month. Although the effect of this proposal will obviously be to assist the European community somewhat in election contests, as they on the average live in much more heavily rated houses than the native rate-payers, the Committee do not consider that it will make any very material difference in the nationality of the Corporation; nor do they mainly adopt it on that ground. In general the wealthier Europeans will be voting in the same ward with the poorer Europeans, and the wealthier natives with the poorer natives; but the Committee consider that the quality of the persons who will become candidates for election will be everywhere improved. If the one-man-one vote principle is adopted, the Committee consider it certain that as the poorer rate-payers who will everywhere be the majority, learn to use their power, the status of those who present themselves for election will gradually but inevitably decline; while if wealth is given its due weight, better and more influential persons will be willing to offer themselves for election. The Committee hope that on fuller consideration the Association will see that the remedy which they suggest would be even worse than the disease, and would lead to precisely the opposite result to that which they wish to attain.

7. On the other hand, the Committee consider that the question is one which should be dealt with in a practical manner; they do not consider that it would be right or expedient to multiply votes in direct proportion to the multiples of taxation. A single person who can give 10 votes does practically exercise more influence on an election than 10 separate voters each with one vote. They have therefore allowed no one to give more than six times as many votes as the poorest voters in ordinary elections. In bye-elections the plurality will be augmented but these are too few and comparatively unimportant to constitute any serious objection. They do not consider that there will be any difficulty in working the system, and the provisions which deal with Companies, &c., would in any case be requisite in order to determine who should be entitled to the single vote, so that they cannot be regarded as a complication due to the plural vote. Indeed, the plural system will rather tend to solve such difficulties as, where the members do not agree, they may be able to divide the votes among themselves instead of being obliged to vote as one person.

8. But the Committee trust that no difference of opinion regarding details will divert attention from the far more important question of principle. Are all rate-payers who contribute up to a certain minimum to be placed on an equal footing, or are those who contribute most, and who in the great majority of cases are better qualified to judge of the needs of the town, to have a more influential voice? The majority of the Committee are in favour of the latter principle.

9. A change has also been made in section 29, which requires explanation: The clause which enabled the Committee to contribute to primary education has been omitted. Nearly half of the Committee were in favour of abandoning the limitation regarding primary education, but this was negatived. These members then held that it was better to allow contribution to education at all than to maintain the restriction ; hence the majority against the clause.

The Committee will submit their final report as soon as they are in a position to do so.

PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them is, by order of the President, published for general information:—

FINAL REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE BILL TO AMEND THE MUNICIPAL ACT IV (B.C.) OF 1876.

IN submitting our final report we desire to explain that, in order to keep it within reasonable limits, we have abstained as a general rule from making any remarks where we have left the Bill unaltered. We have carefully considered the reports of the public bodies and associations which have been referred to us.

Chapter I.—Preliminary.—We have altered the preamble so as to make it clear that amalgamation of the Town and Suburbs is one of the objects of the Bill.

Section 1 we have altered so as to admit of an election being held under the Act before the rest of the Act comes into force. We have adopted the provision for this purpose in the Bengal Municipalities Act, III (B.C.) of 1884.

We have framed the definitions of "bustee lands," "hut," "house" and "bustee" so as to admit of the separate procedure we have introduced into the Bill for dealing with houses and huts as regards their valuation, the collection of rates, and building regulations.

We have made a slight change in the boundaries of Calcutta. We have introduced from the Bengal Municipalities Act the definitions of sewage and rubbish. We have omitted the definitions of immoveable property, land, and moveable property as being unnecessary.

Chapter II, Part II, contains the section about control. Section 37 enumerates the duties of the Corporation. This section has been enlarged to include all that should be included as the duties of the Commissioners, and section 38 confers ample powers on the Local Government to compel the Corporation to discharge any of these duties, should it neglect to do so. We could not recommend the re-enactment of the cumbrous and unworkable sections of the former law. On the other hand the discretion and forbearance of the Government constitute the best guarantee which can be given to the Corporation against a hasty and injudicious use of this power. We have introduced an appeal as of right to the Government of India.

In compliance with the views expressed by the Government of India, we have altered the position of the Chairman (Section 39). Under the present law he is practically irremovable unless he simultaneously loses the confidence both of the Local Government and of the Commissioners. Under the revised section he will be removable if he loses the confidence of either. This will obviously make his position much more insecure, and we have therefore introduced the change with some hesitation. We understand, however, that it is in conformity with the wishes of the Corporation.

In section 41 we have altered the words "shall in all things be under the immediate orders of the Chairman" into "shall be under the orders of the Chairman." The former sentence, if it means anything more than the latter, means more than it ought. The sentence, as it stands, seems to make the relationship quite clear.

In section 45 we have introduced several minor changes, the most important of which is an extension of the power of the Commissioners in meeting in the selection of officers on Rs. 200 to Rs. 500 salary. This concession will, we learn, be much valued by the Commissioners as leaving them a power of choice: at the same time, as the choice is limited to one of three candidates nominated by the Chairman, it will be his own fault if any incompetent person is selected.

The other changes introduced by us, down to section 60 inclusive, are comparatively unimportant and explain themselves.

The old section 52, now section 60, has been divided into two sections, and the latter part of it recast. The important clause in the new section 61 is the last. The section as it stood gave only the Chairman and Vice-Chairman power to represent the Commissioners in their executive functions, and it therefore became necessary in every section in which it was intended that a subordinate officer might act without the formal sanction of the Chairman or Vice-Chairman to put in words to that effect. Eventually this was found cumbersome and unnecessary. The new clause seems to meet all that is wanted; the Chairman under his own responsibility distributes the work to the subordinate officers under section 41 or under his general powers, and each officer within the sphere of the work thus made over to him should be considered to be acting with the Chairman's authority, referring to him, when so ordered, or in all important cases, and acting with his implied sanction where authorized to act without reference.

The changes which we have made in the remaining sections of Chapter II and in Parts I, II and III of Chapter III do not call for any special remark.

Chapter III, Part IV —The section authorising the imposition of a duty on petroleum has been recast to meet the objections of the Government of India to any duty being levied on petroleum stored in Calcutta for consumption elsewhere. We have been invited by one of our colleagues to omit the section altogether in consequence of the duty recently levied on petroleum by the Supreme Government; but a careful consideration of the circumstances which resulted in the insertion of this section has led us to conclude that it would not be fair to the enlarged municipality to omit it—at any rate until some equivalent has been proposed.

On the 4th August 1884 a Committee was appointed by the Government of Bengal, consisting of the Chairman of the Corporation, Mr. W. Craik, Raja (then Baboo) Durga Churn Law, Mr. G. H. Morrison, Baboo Jodoo Lal Mullick, Baboo Kally Nath Mitter, Mr. A. H. Wallis, and Mr. C. E. Buckland, to consider whether the revenues of Calcutta could be augmented by an octroi or in any other similar manner. This Committee considered many proposals for new forms of taxation or for enhancing the revenue from existing forms, and eventually the only proposal they were able to recommend with any approach to unanimity was that for the taxation of petroleum. On this point the Committee were unanimous.

Partly owing to the report of this Committee, the Government in June 1885 appointed a Committee to prepare a scheme for the union of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, consisting of Mr. Reynolds as President, the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta, the Chairman of the Suburban Corporation, Baboo Kally Nath Mitter, and Dr. Guru Das Banerjee.

The views of this Committee regarding the financial aspects of the amalgamation question were contained in paragraphs 13 to 18 of the report, and their character will fully appear in the orders of the Government of Bengal passed on the report in the letter to the Government of India, No. 445 of the 24th January 1886, paragraphs 4, 5, and 6.

"PARA. 4. In paragraphs 13—18 of the Report the Committee discuss the probable financial position of the new Corporation, and record their conclusion that any scheme of amalgamation should be accompanied, first, by a substantial increase in the municipal income which will not involve any alteration of the present legal limits of taxation in Calcutta, and also by an agreement on the part of Government to advance at a reasonable rate of interest such funds as the Corporation may require to raise by way of loan for permanent improvements. They calculate that the municipal income of the new Calcutta would be about 34 lakhs at the rate of taxation now obtaining in the town, and they hold, not without reason, that a considerably larger sum will be required. They do not state the amount, but it is understood to be not less than six lakhs. In order to provide this they suggest that the Government should relieve the new metropolis of all charges on account of police, which would be equivalent to an annual contribution of about three lakhs of rupees; that the system on which railways and canals are rated in the Town and Suburbs should be changed; and that some allotment might be made to municipal funds from canal receipts, from the profits of the Orphanage and Punchan-nogram estates, or from the excise revenue now realised from the town."

"4. In the calculations made by the Committee they have assumed 7½ per cent. as the rate of house-tax. But having regard to what has already passed upon the subject, and the definite expression of the Government of India's views upon it, in estimating the resources of the new Corporation, the full legal rate of the house-tax should have been taken as the basis of calculation, and this would give about four lakhs more than the amount estimated in the report. As, however, it will probably be thought necessary in future legislation to provide for the reduction of the weight of the house-tax in the case of the poorer classes of owners, the above sum should be reduced to three lakhs. The Committee appeal to the proceedings of the Octroi Committee and the conclusions of the Municipal Commissioners upon that Committee's, proposals in support of their opinion that the municipal income should be supplemented from without rather than from within. But both the Octroi Committee and the Municipal Commissioners unanimously recommended that a fee of two annas a case should be levied on all petroleum brought into the town, and it was estimated that such a tax would yield about Rs. 94,000 from Calcutta, the Suburbs and Howrah; out of which it may safely be assumed that at least Rs. 75,000 would be derived from Calcutta and the Suburbs. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that the feasibility of imposing this tax may unobjectionably be considered in the course of the legislation required to carry out the proposed amalgamation.

"5. Turning now to the suggestions made to aid the Corporation, the Lieutenant-Governor can only repeat the desire already more than once expressed by him to relieve the metropolis of all charge on account of police. But, as the Government of India is aware, this Government cannot undertake to defray the charge from the resources now at its disposal. The permanent burthen thrown upon the Bengal revenues by the transfer of the Municipal Police Force in the interior amounts to Rs. 5,11,000 a year, while the total improvement in the provincial receipts from all sources, except Public Works, during the last four years is barely seven and a half lakhs. It is only by rigorously cutting out almost every item of optional expenditure that Sir Rivers Thompson has been able in his forecast for the coming year to provide for a small excess on the receipt side of the Provincial estimate, and it would not be in his power by any practicable retrenchments in other departments to meet the charge for the Metropolitan Police. He ventures to hope therefore that the Government of India will be disposed to assist him in the matter by placing means at his disposal to relieve the new Corporation of the charge.

"In this case the Calcutta Municipality in its new constitution would probably start with the following approximate addition to the increase estimated by the Committee:—

	Rs.
Net increase of house-tax 3,00,000
Storage tax on petroleum 75,000
Amount set free by transfer of police charge 3,00,000
 Total	 ... 6,75,000

"The suggestion to change the system of rating railways and canals within the municipality practically amounts to a request for an additional contribution from Government; but the Lieutenant-Governor is distinctly of opinion that such aid, if given at all, should be given directly rather than indirectly, and that under present circumstances no more assistance should be given than that involved in the transfer to Government of the police charges. It is therefore unnecessary to dwell on the objections to making any allotments from any of the various branches of Government revenue suggested by the Committee.

"6. The questions connected with borrowing by municipal and other local bodies have been so fully discussed, and the definite decisions of the Government of India and Secretary of State on the subject are so recent, that the Lieutenant-Governor does not feel justified in asking to have the subject re-opened. It is possible that the difficulty now found by public bodies in raising loans in the local market may be merely temporary, and that it may disappear before the new municipality comes into existence. The Lieutenant-Governor is also inclined to hope that the improvements to be made in the constitution and organization of the Corporation may have the effect of bettering its credit. In any case Sir Rivers Thompson is of opinion that it is at present undesirable to attempt to settle finally the questions connected with the loan operations of the municipality, which it is proposed to re-constitute, and he has touched on the subject here, only because it forms a prominent part of the report of the amalgamation question."

The Government of India having approved in general terms of this letter, the Amalgamation Bill was introduced, and in the Statement of Objects and Reasons it was said:—

"In effecting the amalgamation, care has been taken to protect the rate-payers of the town against loss owing to the diversion of their rates and taxes for the benefit of the new area to be added to Calcutta. The rates and taxes levied throughout the enlarged area will be uniform, and it should obviously be the endeavour of the new Corporation to bestow on all parts of the municipality similar advantages, so far as time and circumstances permit. The natural effect of this would be that money would flow, as it does in all similar cases, from the centre to the extremities. To compensate for this the Government proposes to give up the contribution now paid by the Town and Suburbs to the police. This is estimated at about 3 lakhs of rupees per annum, nine-tenths of which is paid by the town. What the present rate-payers of the town will gain by this remission is estimated as approximately equivalent to what they will lose by amalgamation with a more sparsely populated and poorer tract.

"It is proposed to levy a conservancy rate with the same maximum as the police rate and from the same class of rate-payers. By this means the rate-payers of the town will be in a position to contribute annually about Rs. 2,80,000 towards the improvement of the area amalgamated with it, without being any worse off qua taxation than they are at present.

"It is also proposed to allow a storage fee, which may be raised with the consent of Government to a maximum of four annas a case (though two annas is the rate contemplated) on all petroleum brought within municipal limits for storage or consumption. Petroleum passing through Calcutta and not stored in it will not be liable to this tax."

From these proceedings it seems to the Committee that the rate-payers of the Town and Suburbs who are to be amalgamated have been justified in supposing that if it was found feasible to levy a duty on petroleum, at least so far as consumed in Calcutta, that duty would be sanctioned as one of the means of furnishing them with the revenue necessary to enable them to deal adequately with the new responsibilities which will devolve upon the governing body, and this source of income is much more urgently needed now than it was supposed to be at that time. It was found necessary to raise the house-rate to 8 per cent. two years ago to meet the increasing needs of sanitation, and we learn that since then the sanitary requirements of the town have rendered it necessary to estimate for the full 10 per cent. house-rate (the maximum) to meet them during the ensuing year, and to abandon the allotment usually made from revenue for minor town improvements.

The financial prospects of the new Corporation will therefore be seriously injured if this duty, which we believe it would be feasible to collect without hardship or appreciable inconvenience, is abandoned, because petroleum has been subsequently made the subject of imperial taxation. The Bombay Corporation is allowed to levy an import duty on wines and spirits, though equally subjected to imperial taxation, and the revenue they receive from this source amounts to Rs. 1,50,000 a year. The cases seem to be exactly parallel, and we are in hopes that a full exposition of the history of this section may induce the Government to show the same indulgence to one Corporation as has been shown to the other.

Chapter IV.—We have thought it expedient to recast Part I—"Of imposing the rates." In the report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons which was appointed in 1870 very great importance was attached to making owners and occupiers jointly liable for the rates. The report stated—1. (e) "that in any reform of the existing system of local taxation it is expedient to adjust the system of rating in such a manner that both owners and occupiers may be brought to feel an immediate interest in the increase or decrease of local expenditure and in the administration of local affairs." On this principle we adopted last year a suggestion of our colleague the Hon'ble Kally Nath Mitter to consolidate the various rates and levy half from the owners and half from the occupiers in lieu of levying the whole of one rate from owners and the whole of the other rates from occupiers. By this system owners were only interested in keeping down expenditure defrayed from the house-rate, while occupiers were interested in keeping down a different class of expenditure. It was believed that this had worked badly, and the proposal to make each class equally interested in each rate by dividing the consolidated rate had therefore our cordial support.

It has been pointed out, however, in paragraph 18 of the letter of the Trades' Association of the 25th November that this has the effect of transferring a portion of taxation from the owners to the occupiers, as under the existing law the rates are being levied at 9½ and 7½ per cent. respectively, and the Association say that the consolidated rate ought to be divided in the same proportions.

There is much force in this objection; but it is very desirable for obvious reasons to make the division equal; and in addition to the three rates payable by the occupiers, aggregating a maximum of 9½ per cent., they have also to pay fees for the establishment of mehters entertained under section 244 of the present Act. These fees are payable by occupiers, and are levied in accordance with a sliding scale, which is as high as 50 per cent. on houses and huts rented at Rs. 2 a month, about 5 per cent. on houses or huts rented at Rs. 20 a month, about 2 per cent. on houses rented at Rs. 200 a month, and ½ per cent. on houses rented at Rs. 2,000 a month. It is evident that if a uniform rate of 2 per cent. for this service could be equitably substituted for this sliding scale of fees, and consolidated with the other rates, it would exactly balance the shares payable by the owners and occupiers, who would each be liable to a maximum rate of 11½ per cent. The consolidated rate, including all these rates and fees, might then with perfect equity be equally divided between owners and occupiers. We have therefore considered the question from the financial point of view of the effect of a 2 per cent. rate, and from the equitable point of view of levying a uniform rate instead of a sliding scale of fees. The scale of fees imposed in the town produces at present a little less than two lacs annually. The scale of fees in the suburbs is perhaps much higher than in the town, and produces rather more than one lac. The total present income is therefore somewhat in excess of three lacs. The present assessed annual value of the town and of the portion of the suburbs to be added to it, is about 160 lacs. A 2 per cent. rate on this will produce Rs. 3,20,000 annually, or allowing 5 per cent. for bad debts, about the same as the present fees.

As regards the equity of the change, it presents somewhat greater difficulty. The fees are at present collected only from houses whose privies are unconnected. Houses with connected privies pay nothing, as the establishment performs no service.

We are of opinion, however, that when fully considered the change will be found to be an improvement on the existing system. Occupiers are equally benefited by the Corporation, whether night-soil is removed by an establishment of mehters or by underground drains, and for many years past the connection of privies with the underground drains, has been required in all the more crowded parts of the Town, in consequence of the danger of choking up the connections with faecal matter. Only the larger and better built houses have been allowed to have connections. Practically, therefore, the poorer members of the community have had to pay very heavy fees indeed for an establishment forced upon them by the danger to the health of the Town, which would have resulted from their being allowed to connect, as the owners of many of the wealthier houses have been allowed.

This prohibition, though based hitherto on the non-completion of the water-supply extension, it will, in the opinion of Dr. Simpson and other eminent sanitary authorities, be necessary to retain in the future as well as in the past. In all but the best built houses, and especially in a climate such as that of Calcutta, the present system is far safer than the connected system, and should in the interests of the health of the Town be maintained. If so, it seems fair that the privileged few should pay as much as those to whom connections are refused. This is how the equity of the case has presented itself to the framers of the Bombay Bill, where the establishment has long been in existence for the whole Town, and the new sewers are recently affording an opportunity of making connections. The Halalkhor rate (section 141) is leviable in respect of premises—

"(a) Situated in any portion of the city in which public notice has been given by the Commissioners that the collection, removal and disposal of all excrementitious and polluted matter from privies, urinals and cess-pools will be undertaken by municipal agency; or

"(b) in which, wherever situate, there is a privy, water-closet, cess-pool, urinal, bathing-place, and cooking-place connected by a drain with a municipal drain."

In Calcutta also this was the view taken by the Commissioners when the subject was first discussed, though the law (section 211) had been so framed that they could not give effect to their views.

In 1877, a special Committee of 13 Commissioners was appointed "to consider the best arrangements for the removal of night-soil from private houses."

In paragraph 27 of their report, submitted on the 29th December 1877, they wrote—

"In the course of the discussions regarding the schedule of fees to be adopted, the Chairman expressed an opinion that the better plan for realising a sufficient sum to meet the expenditure for the removal of night-soil from private houses would be the imposition of a 3 per cent. drainage rate payable by occupiers of houses and lands in the entire town, and he proposed that the legislature be moved to sanction such a rate, estimating at the same time the gross proceeds of the rate, less remissions, at Rs. 3,55,000. The sense of the majority went with the Chairman (Dr. Rajendralal Mitra, Revd. Dr. K. M. Banerjee, and Hon'ble Kristo Das Pal dissenting), but it was agreed that no immediate action should be taken in the matter at present."

It will thus be seen that if the proposal as now made is adopted, it will only be endorsing what would have been adopted from the outset had the law permitted it.

The practical benefit which this will confer on the poorer class of rate-payers will be very great. It may be taken as a general rule that the uniformity of rating is almost a first principle for the success of municipal administration. In the present case, the Commissioners supply sewers for the use of the larger and better built houses, a staff of mehlers for those which have unconnected privies, and free latrines, maintained at considerable expense, for those which have no privies. They therefore meet the wants of all persons residing in the city; and though no doubt some receive more than others in proportion to what they pay, there seems no more reason for making this payment differential than there is for making the lighting rate differential. In the Parliamentary Committee, already referred to, great stress was laid on this principle. They reported:—

"(5) That the great variety of rates levied by different authorities even in the same area on different assessments with different deductions, and by different Collectors, has produced great confusion and expense, and that in any change of the law as regards local taxation, uniformity, simplicity of assessment and collection, as well as of economy of management, ought to be secured as far as possible."

"(G) That the consolidation into one rate of all local rates collected within the same area is a matter of great importance, and that your Committee concur in the Resolution of the Select Committee on Poor Rates Assessment, 1865, which recommended one consolidated rate."

The system of Calcutta has never been nearly as confusing as that in England, but nevertheless the present night-soil fees system has been productive of great expense, harassment and inconvenience. About 32,000 premises are served by the establishment of mehlers, 32,000 extra bills therefore have to be prepared every quarter, each forming the subject of a separate calculation at a scale different from the ordinary rate-bills. A large establishment has to report constantly the houses in respect to which service is discontinued or newly provided. In very many of these cases, amounting to about 10 per cent. of the whole number of the bills, the report is challenged, and, if adhered to after further enquiry, the amount has to be recovered by the coercive procedure. Thus the time of a large establishment is taken up in preparing the bills, of another establishment in making local enquiries, and of a third establishment in enforcing payment from the poorest rate-payers of the town, of what, even without costs, is a 5 to a 50 per cent. rate on their rent. If our proposals in this matter are approved of, we are satisfied that a very great boon will be conferred on the poorer classes in the town.

In section 117 we have made it obligatory on the Commissioners to levy the consolidated rate on huts from the owners of the land, leaving the latter to recover half the rate of the land and the whole of the rate of the hut from the hut-owners. It is proposed to allow one-eighth of the rate to the land-owners for the costs of collection. This also will lead to economy of management in the valuation of huts, and therefore the rate assessed upon them will be fixed once a year for the year, instead of constantly fluctuating with every new hut built or removed, and one bill will be made out for each huttee property instead of a large number. We also cannot doubt that it will relieve the hut-owner from harassment, though this result is questioned. It is said that the little finger of the owner will be thicker than the bins of the municipal collecting establishment; but the hut-owner has already to settle with the owner of the land, who naturally asks as much as he can induce the hut-owner to pay. The hut-owner will have no difficulty whatsoever in ascertaining what he is bound to pay in addition as rates, and it is difficult to see why he should let himself be more fleeced for rates and rent combined than for rent only. On the other hand the municipal collecting establishment with its warrant machinery will be altogether kept aloof from the hut owners, and this cannot but be to their benefit.

The principle is not new in Calcutta. Section 100 of the present Act gives the Commissioners the requisite authority to collect the occupiers' rates from the landlord in the case of small holdings; but as the section does not refer to the house-tax (which the hut has to pay) or to the night soil fees, nothing would have been gained under the existing law by using its provisions.

Chapter V.—The valuation section has again received our best consideration. Last year we estimated 6 per cent. on the ordinary cost price, as the fairest standard of the annual value of houses not built for letting purposes or ordinarily let. This has been challenged in the 'remarks' annexed to the letter of the British Indian Association of the 23rd December last, on two main grounds—first, as being "grossly unsound" in principle; secondly, because 6 per cent. is notoriously more than owners on an average get from houses which are built for letting purposes." Each of these objections should be separately considered; and to enable the objection as to principle to be fairly estimated, the circumstances which led to the change in the section should be stated. Houses in Calcutta might be divided into three categories for assessment purposes—(1) houses built for letting purposes, whether as residences for Europeans, as tenanted houses for the large number of native gentlemen, students, and others who, leaving their families in the mofussil, reside in Calcutta in pursuance of their avocations, or as business premises for offices, godowns, shops, &c.; (2) houses built by the owners for their own use either as residential houses for their families, or by Government and other large owners as offices and business premises; (3) tiled huts built by one man on another man's land, either for his own occupation, or to let out in rooms to poorer occupants.

Of these three classes, the first has as a rule been fully assessed; the rent actually paid has been usually taken as the best test of the rate at which the premises might reasonably be expected to let from year to year, and as no allowance or deduction has been made for the cost of repairs, these houses have been rated higher than they would have been according to the English system.

Similarly, the third class has been over-assessed; the rate at which such huts let is high, and the cost of repairs heavy; but the full rent without any deduction for repairs is taken as the annual value.

The second class must be divided into two sub-classes—(a) residential family houses; (b) Government or other large buildings.

The latter have been assessed very much on the system proposed in the section, checked by comparison with similar buildings that are constructed for letting purposes. In many cases, the cost price being known, a valuation of 6 per cent. on this price when the building is new has been taken as the annual rent.

But the numerous residential family houses which abound in the north and east of the town have been rated on a very different principle. Not being built for letting purposes and being specially adapted to the family of the owner, it has been argued that the price at which they might reasonably be expected to let from year to year is very small. This principle having been accepted and habitually acted on as the right one by the assessment benches, these houses, amounting to a considerable portion of the assessable property of the town, have been assessed far below their proper value, and have paid far below their fair share of rates. The case quoted by the Association, which is a typical case, clearly illustrates the demoralisation which has resulted from this most inequitable system. In this case a new house with its grounds was known to have cost Rs. 1,80,000, and the assessor, in valuing it at Rs. 100 a month, remarked that this was less than 2½ per cent. on the cost. Evidence of experts was forthcoming that such a house would not command a letting value of more than Rs. 250 a month, or 1 66 per cent. on the cost! We need scarcely say that this is not the correct interpretation of the English law. In the case of such houses in England as are not built to let to tenants from year to year, the rule has been judicially declared to be that "a hypothetical tenant must be assumed, and the terms of such tenancy are not difficult to be conceived; the occupying tenant must be assumed to pay adequate remuneration to a contractor for land and fixed capital vested therein, and the local rateable value would be such a sum as would pay the rent of the land and profit on the fixed capital therein." (Decision of Mr. Justice Wightman quoted in the 7th edition of Lumley's Law of Parochial Assessments, page 19).

This is precisely the principle which we desire to see clearly expressed in the Bill.

It is worthy of remark, too, that it is in regard to residential houses such as these that a house-tax is selected by economists as one of the best and fairest of taxes, while "it is an admitted principle that buildings or portions of buildings occupied exclusively for business, such as shops, warehouses or manufactories, ought to be exempted from house-tax" (Mill, Book V, clause III, section 6). In Calcutta, while some residential houses have borne but a nominal assessment, business premises have been rated at a rack rent.

So far as the general principle is concerned, we feel no manner of doubt that we are advocating a principle of justice and equity, and that the British Indian Association are endeavouring to defend an untenable abuse.

Whether 6 per cent. is or is not too high a rate is obviously a different question. We have made careful enquiries as to the return which investors in house property generally expect to get for their money. The "remarks" of the British Indian Association assert that it is notorious that house property in Calcutta does not fetch more than 4 per cent. on the outlay. The courts of law as a rule only award 16 years' purchase of the annual value, which would point to 6 per cent. as below the fair annual rental. On the other hand the Rating and House-tax Bill introduced into Parliament by Mr. Goschen in 1871, as the immediate result of the Report of the Committee of which he was Chairman, contained the following section :—

"The annual gross value of every hereditament shall be the annual rent which a tenant might reasonably be expected, taking one year with another, to pay for it if the tenant undertook to pay all usual tenants' rates and taxes and the tithe commutation rent charge, if any, and if the landlord undertook to bear the cost of the repairs and insurance and all other expenses necessary to maintain the hereditament in a state to command that rent.

"The annual rateable value shall be estimated by deducting from the gross annual value the probable annual average cost of the repairs, insurance, and other expenses above referred to.

"When it appears to the assessing authority that for special reasons a building cannot be fairly valued according to the annual rent which a tenant might reasonably be expected to pay for it, it shall be valued in the following manner :—

"The gross value of any such building shall be a sum equal to 4 per cent. on the capital sum which a purchaser might justly be expected to give for such a building in its actual state and existing mode of occupation. The rateable value shall be the gross value so calculated after making the same deductions as are made in the case of any building valued in the ordinary manner."

This would cut down the rateable value to about 3½ per cent., and the question is whether 6 per cent. in India is a more liberal return for house property than 3½ per cent. in England. We have received assurances that some house-owners do not receive a clear 6 per cent. on their house property after making all deductions; and, on the whole, we have come to the conclusion that, looking to the present under-assessment of these houses, it is best to err on the safe side and to take 5 per cent. as the fair net return on house property. This obviously involves the consequence that tenanted houses should be assessed on their net and not on their gross rental, and we have therefore allowed, as is done in similar laws elsewhere, a deduction of 10 per cent. on the actual rental for repairs. The 5 per cent. rate will similarly, we think, be a fairer rate on the expenditure incurred by Government in the construction of its buildings.

In accordance with the strong recommendations of the Port Commissioners, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Trades' Association, we have re-inserted the proviso exempting machinery. We observe that this proviso, which had similarly been omitted in the Bombay Bill, has been similarly restored there by the Select Committee.

We have as already indicated, introduced (section 124) a new system of rating bustees, by which the value of the bustee at the beginning of the year shall remain unaltered for assessment purposes throughout the year. The valuation may be continued for a similar period by mutual consent of the Commissioners and of the owner, but either of the two parties has the right to insist on a revaluation at the end of the year.

The register of owners is at present very badly kept up, many owners preferring to leave the names of their ancestors or predecessors in title on the register instead of inserting their own. As we have endeavoured to remedy this, we have thought it necessary (section 128) to facilitate the machinery of registration when a claimant's title, though undisputed, cannot be easily proved.

Chapter VI.—We have made no alterations of any consequence in Chapter VI 'of levying the rates.'

Chapter VII deals with the water-supply. In section 150 we have thought it fair to make it obligatory on the Commissioners to treat the crews of vessels lying at the jetties or in the docks as residents of the jetties or docks, and, looking to the large amount of water-rate paid by the Port Commissioners, to supply them with water free of charge. We have maintained, however, the right to make a reasonable charge for water to be taken away from Calcutta for use on the voyage.

Section 153 indicates the pressure which is to be maintained; and as nearly every public body and association that has reported on the Bill, has referred to this section, and begged that the obligations of the Corporation may be clearly defined, it has received our most careful consideration.

We append to this report a note by the Chairman of the Corporation explaining the reasons why pressure cannot, under existing arrangements, be maintained. It seems to us that this note conclusively shows that the scale of ferrules which is at present in force under the orders of the Commissioners, is so lavish that it is only possible to maintain an adequate pressure, if the supply of water and the engine-power is more than doubled, or if the size of the ferrules is reduced. The former alternative would be far the most satisfactory were not the cost altogether prohibitive. That being so, the only remedy which we regard as practicable is to reduce the size of the ferrules.

It must be borne in mind that the supply which the Commissioners are, under the existing law, bound to give to connected houses is only 1,500 gallons for every rupee of water-rate, and they are entitled to affix a meter and to charge for all water consumed in excess of this scale. It is true that this does not apply to houses assessed at less than Rs. 100 a month, but still the section indicates clearly what is the amount of water which is a fair return for the water-rate paid.

The supply has been increased so much since this scale was prescribed that there will now be no difficulty in guaranteeing 3,000 gallons of filtered water for every rupee of rate. We propose therefore to substitute 3,000 gallons for 1,500 gallons in section 155, and having thus secured the rate-payers double the supply which they are at present entitled to, only those who have consumed much more than this quantity can be aggrieved if the ferrules are reduced, and they are precisely the class who have no claim to have their complaint entertained.

The only question is whether we should leave the Commissioners to revise the scale of ferrules or should revise them by law. It seems to us better to insert the change in the law. The effect of this measure must infallibly be misunderstood at first by the rate-payers at large, and it would be imposing a very hard task on the Commissioners to leave it to them to pass so unpopular a proposal. We appear to have enough data before us to enable us, with the experience of the last 18 years, to fix a fair working schedule of ferrules, and we have left a power with the Local Government on the recommendation of the Commissioners in meeting to revise the scale.

As some houses are so disadvantageously situated that they will get an inferior pressure, we have provided that, whenever it is shown that the ferrule will not give the supply to which a householder is entitled, he shall have a right to such an enlarged ferrule as will give him this supply.

In section 160, by which the Commissioners are empowered to lay open and inspect gas-pipes or other works which are thought to be fouling the water-supply, we have adopted a suggestion of the Health Society to make it incumbent upon the Commissioners at once to purify the water if found to be contaminated.

Chapters VIII and IX—The other alterations made in this Chapter, as well as those made in Chapters VIII and IX, are comparatively unimportant.

Chapter X.—‘Of Conservancy and Improvement,’ and Chapter XI ‘of Sanitation’ have, in conformity with suggestions made, been re-arranged and divided into Chapter X ‘of Streets and Building Regulations,’ Chapter XI ‘of Drainage Works, Drains and Privies,’ and Chapter XII ‘of Sanitation.’

In Part I of Chapter X “of the Streets” we have added a new section taken from the Bombay Act, in order to make it perfectly clear that the Commissioners, when making new streets, may acquire the land outside the line of the street and may re-sell such land. A comparison of sections 111 and 113 of Act VI of 1863 with sections 190, 327, and 329 of the existing law, has left no doubt on our minds that this had always been the intention of the legislature, and we consider it a perfectly fair and equitable proviso. We have, prescribed a limit of 100 feet on each side of the proposed line of the new street for the land to be acquired.

We have also made it clear (section 205) that when a public street is closed the site may be sold, any person injured thereby being compensated, unless he has got an equivalent by the new street which presumably will have been opened in its place.

In consequence of a difficulty experienced in working section 265 in a recent case, we have in the corresponding section (207) made it clear that in exercising the power to set back when a house is pulled down to be rebuilt, the Commissioners are only bound to pay the market value of the land taken, together with severance compensation, and we have given the same power where new streets have been formally projected, as a very important power to be exercised if new suburbs are likely to spring up in the added area.

Parts II and III ‘of Building Regulations,’ regarding houses and huts, have been almost entirely re-written with reference to the recommendations made from many quarters in favour of conferring more ample building powers on the Commissioners, so as to obviate the serious future evils which must ensue from allowing houses to be constructed on no regular lines, as has been done in Rajah Bagan and elsewhere. We are so satisfied that this was needed that we have framed these parts of the Act expressly to meet this difficulty. It will be best to describe the general object of these sections rather than to refer to them in detail.

We have retained the fundamental difference in these chapters as in the chapters on valuations and in the collection of rates, between houses usually built of masonry which are constructed on land belonging to the builders, and huts usually built of mud, where the hut-owner builds on another man’s land.

As regards the construction of houses, we have been invited to pay attention to two main points, (1) their being erected on such sites and in such a manner that they will admit of broad, straight streets running through them; (2) their being so constructed as to guarantee proper ventilation, air spaces, open ground round them, and such other sanitary conditions as are found in the English model bye-laws, and are also introduced into the Bombay Act. We have not admitted the equal importance of each of these requirements.

Full and effective control over the site we have regarded as indispensable not only to regulate the new masonry buildings which are being erected in the town, but still more those which may spring up round the docks or elsewhere; but as regards ventilation and air spaces, we are of opinion that the circumstances of Indian and English life are so different, as well as the climatic conditions, that there is not sufficient experience to justify the legislature in imposing hard-and-fast rules such as are prescribed in the English model bye-laws. We have therefore generally indicated that the Commissioners have control over houses with reference to sufficient ventilation and air spaces, and have made it clear in the law that a person is not entitled, if he owns two or three cottahs of land, to cover it all with buildings, causing, if his neighbours choose to do the same with this land, an irremediably insanitary condition; but having laid down this general principle, we have left the application of it to the Health Officer working under the control of the Commissioners, who have power to make bye-laws on the subject.

As regards sites, the Commissioners have power to lay down lines of projected public streets, and private persons may construct streets approved of by the Commissioners; but unless the satisfactory position of the site can be shown with reference to either an existing or a projected public or private street, the Commissioners may refuse sanction to it. The effect of this will be that the lines of streets in building areas must as a general rule be laid down before the buildings can be constructed, being the reverse of what now takes place.

As regards bustees, we have preserved the present power of making improvements after inspection by two medical officers; but we have added a new power which will, we hope, work more widely and systematically. The Commissioners have power to define the limits of each bustee, and, having done so, to call for a standard plan showing how the huts are eventually to be arranged in it, so as to stand in regular lines. Powers are given to enforce the preparation of this plan, and, once prepared, no new hut can be constructed or existing hut reconstructed except in accordance with it.

If these provisions are enforced intelligently for a few years, all the bustees in the municipality will be brought into conformity with the law, and the huts will be so arranged as to afford all the necessary facilities for scavenging and cleansing.

Chapter XI.—The changes introduced into Chapter XI on Drainage are, with one exception, unimportant, though there has been some re-arrangement of sections. The exception is a new section taken from the Bombay Bill to enable the Commissioners in any new drainage works to provide separate sewers for sewage and drainage.

In Chapter XII., Part I, (on Scavenging and Cleansing), we have introduced a provision from the Bombay Bill making it obligatory on owners whose animals die, either to remove the carcass or to report to the Commissioners for its removal. At present this is almost invariably done, but there is no legal obligation.

As Part II of this Chapter we have introduced from the Bombay law sections authorising the inspection and sanitary regulation of premises, and we have made some changes in Part III for the prevention of infectious diseases. In these parts we have introduced a section from the Bombay Bill authorising under certain circumstances the demolition of a hut in order to prevent the spread of disease. In section 324 we have limited the right to force unwilling persons to go to hospital to the case of males. We are informed that the provisions of this section were regarded with dismay in many families, where the contingency was conceived of zenana ladies being forced to go to hospital by a zealous executive, as being 'without proper lodging or accommodation,' or as 'lodged in a manner which makes the spread of such infectious disease imminent.' We have left out the concluding words altogether as 'being too wide; but as the persons who it will be necessary to move will in nine cases out of ten in Calcutta be males, and it is desirable to allay apprehensions at a very small cost as regards loss of efficiency, we have by a small majority limited the provision to males.'

The alterations which we have made in Part V of this Chapter, viz., 'of slaughter-houses and dangerous and offensive trades,' and Part VI 'of markets and the sale of food and drugs' are very slight, though we have re-arranged the sections.

Part VII of Weights and Measures is new, being taken from the Bombay Law. The Calcutta Police Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, sections 55 and 56, gives power to the Commissioner of Police to keep standard weights and measures and to seize false weights. The municipality, having the control of markets, ought, we think, also to keep standard weights and to offer facilities to vendors to have their weights examined and compared with the standards, and, if correct, stamped as such. The new sections provide for this.

In Part VIII of burial grounds and burning ghats we have provided for requiring the owners of private burial grounds to submit plans of them, if called upon; while the municipality is charged with the same duty as regards public burial grounds. We have also introduced a section (377) from the Bengal Municipalities Act prohibiting new or disused burial grounds from being used without the consent either of the Government or of the Commissioners.

The changes in Part IX of nuisances and in Part I, Chapter XIII, of rights of entry, are only verbal.

Chapter XVII.—In Part II we have altered the heading to 'of the acquisition and disposal of land' and have made the wording more comprehensive.

In Part III 'of Railways' we have, as directed, placed the powers of the Corporation under the direct control of the Government of India.

In Chapter XIV. 'of the Municipal Debt' we have also, as directed, transferred the control from the local Government to the Government of India, and have provided for a form of the acts of the consolidated loan should such a loan be resorted to.

In Chapter XVII. 'of prosecutions' we have introduced a section (422) empowering the Commissioners in meeting to apply to Government to appoint special Magistrates for the trial of offences under the Municipal Act. This we regard as of great importance.

In Chapter XIX, Miscellaneous, we have made several alterations. We have introduced a more definite procedure similar to that laid down in sections 175-185 of the Bengal Municipalities Act, defining the rights of persons called upon to execute any work to have their objections duly heard and determined. At present this branch of executive administration works badly, mainly because persons called upon to do any work rarely object till after the work is done and the bill sent in, when they raise every possible objection to payment. If, as is probable, the suggested procedure leads to more objections being made before execution of the work, it will be a much greater gain than the slight delay in execution will prove an inconvenience. These sections also give power to the Commissioners to divide the expenses among the owners or occupiers when more than one are equitably liable.

In section 452 we have introduced a provision from the same Act, protecting the city from strikes of meheters and scavengers. Past experience has shown that this is very much needed in Calcutta.

We have exempted public burial grounds and burning ghâts from being rated.

We have introduced (sections 456 to 459) provisions for enabling the Local Government to alter the boundaries of Calcutta from time to time as necessity for so doing may arise. These sections are taken from the India Act of 1884 (Act XVII), but we have thought it right to except from these provisions, the area under the original jurisdiction of the High Court.

NOTE ON THE WATER-SUPPLY.

1. DIVERGENT and often antagonistic as are the opinions expressed on other provisions of the new Municipal Bill by the public bodies and associations that have been consulted, there is one section in regard to which entire unanimity prevails—section 134.

This section runs thus—

"The Commissioners shall, between the hours of six in the forenoon and eight in the afternoon, so far as may be reasonably practicable, keep and maintain throughout their pipes and mains a sufficient supply of filtered water under a pressure of not less than 10 feet, for the domestic use of the rate-payers, and shall every day, for not less than two hours in the forenoon and one hour in the afternoon, maintain a pressure of water in the service pipes and mains sufficient to raise the water in all houses and places in which the same may be introduced within the area at present supplied to a height of not less than 30 feet."

2. Commenting on this section, the British Indian Association strongly protest against the reduction of the pressure from 50 to 30 feet. The Indian Association close their letter with the hope that a minimum pressure of 30 feet may be fixed. The Health Society consider that the words "so far as may be reasonably practicable" render the section unworkable. The Port Commissioners also recommend by a majority the omission of these words. The Chamber of Commerce attach importance to this. They entirely support the contention of the Hon. G Irving that as regards the water-supply "the maintenance of a sufficient pressure should be as definitely and as unmistakeably laid down in the Act as the provisions in regard to taxation," and the Trades' Association consider the proviso a very objectionable one, and "trust that the words to which exception is taken may be omitted from the Bill."

3. These strongly-expressed opinions justify me in hoping that the time has come when the public will be prepared to support the only measure that can successfully effect the improvement in pressure which they all desire, viz., a wholesale reduction in the too liberal size of the ferrules already granted for house connections. It is incumbent on me to show that this is the only remedy short of such an expenditure as would double, if not treble, the cost of the water-supply. If I successfully do so, I am justified in hoping that the Select Committee and the public bodies and associations which attach so much importance to this reform will support me in the necessarily unpopular but very salutary measure which affords the only practicable means of maintaining a proper pressure.

4. In considering how far the Commissioners have hitherto discharged the obligations imposed upon them by the law in the matter of water-supply, it is right to bear in mind that the quantity of water which could be fairly taken for domestic consumption was indicated as clearly as the pressure at which it was to be supplied. Section 138 of the present Act contains a provision that "the occupier of every house connected with the water-supply shall be entitled to have free of further charge 1,500 gallons of filtered water for every rupee paid to the Commissioners as water-rate on account of such house."

5. At the present moment 10½ million gallons are being supplied to the Town daily, and the amount being collected as water-rate is considerably less than 7 lakhs of rupees. This gives about 5,500 gallons of water instead of 1,500 supplied for every rupee; and as it will be shown hereafter that all but the very largest houses and properties get more than their share of the supply, it may safely be said that moderately-sized connected houses as a rule are getting 7,000, 10,000 and even 15,000 gallons for every rupee of water-rate paid. The Commissioners have not in the least failed as regards the quantity of water which they have to deliver, and it is well known also that the excellence of the quality is fully maintained. It is merely as regards the pressure at which the supply is delivered and by consequence as regards the distribution that they fail for the reasons which I proceed to indicate.

6. After a house is once connected with the water-supply, the size of the ferrule is the only check which can practically be exercised over the quantity of water which that house will consume at a given pressure, if the supply is continuous. In Calcutta, for reasons which were probably sufficient, it was arranged to deliver water under the continuous and not the intermittent supply system. The intermittent system requires the use of cisterns which are very liable to contamination, and also increases the probability of gas finding its way into the pipes. In Calcutta the supply was at first continuous both by day and night, but after a short time night supply was found impossible. Since, then, the supply has been a continuous day supply, and this the Act indicates that it should remain.

7. If continuous, there is nothing to prevent the ferrule working all day long if the inmates of the house choose to keep their taps running. Hence it must be clearly recognised that under our present system, as soon as we have sanctioned a certain size of ferrule, we have sanctioned implicitly as large a consumption of water as that ferrule will pass during the day. The water may be wasted, or it may be consumed legitimately though extravagantly, but the legal standard of 1,500 gallons for a rupee of water-rate obviously becomes a dead letter if we sanction a ferrule that will give 15,000 gallons for every rupee paid and if the inmates of the house choose to take 15,000 gallons. So far therefore as command over the water to the individual is involved, and loss of command to the Commissioners, this depends on the size of the ferrules, and it is the simple fact that the scale of ferrules sanctioned has been such that it has entailed entire loss of command over the water-supply, and if the Commissioners are to be responsible for the pressure of the future supply, they can only fulfil this duty if they recover their command by a wholesale reduction in the size of the ferrules. This I proceed to show.

8. The following scale of ferrules was sanctioned in the first year of the water-supply, 1870, and has remained in force ever since.—

Monthly assessment of house.						Size of ferrule.
Under 5 rupees
" 10 "	1/8 inch.
" 50 "	1/4 "
" 100 "	1/2 "
" 200 "	5/8 "

In a few special cases of very large buildings ferrules of 1½ and 1¾ inches have been sanctioned.

9. An accepted formula for water-supply through a ferrule is $G = 13\sqrt{P \times d^2}$ where
P represents the pressure in height of feet, d the diameter of the orifice of the ferrule in inches,
G the number of gallons per minute :

thus if the pressure is represented by a column of water 25 feet in height, and the diameter of the ferrule is ½ inch, the discharge per minute will be—

$$G = 13\sqrt{25} \times (\frac{1}{2})^2 = 16\frac{1}{2} \text{ gallons}$$ and in an hour, with the same pressure maintained throughout, the ferrule, if working continuously, would deliver $16\frac{1}{2} \times 60 = 975$ gallons.

10. The number of connections sanctioned in the town up to the 31st December 1887, and the amount of water which they can consume per minute, according to this formula, is shown in the following table :—

11. This statement, when examined, conclusively explains the causes of the unsatisfactory pressure. The original water-supply of the town was 6 million gallons per diem. This was after a time raised to 7 and then to 8 millions. At the present moment it is $10\frac{1}{2}$ millions, and before the amalgamation takes effect it will be 16 millions, which is the maximum supply intended for the town proper. The engines and mains were originally calculated for the delivery of a little over 6 million gallons. As the supply has been enlarged, the engine-power has been increased, larger mains have been put down, and the general outline of the extension scheme may be said to be that the filters will pass about 850,000 gallons an hour; that the mains from Pultah to Calcutta will send down about 850,000 gallons an hour; that of the aggregate of 20 million gallons for the town and suburbs, 4 million gallons will be reserved for distribution in the suburbs, and 16 million gallons stored each night in three Town reservoirs for distribution throughout the town during the day from three centres of distribution. The town engines will be capable of distributing 2,604,784 gallons in a single hour, in which case the whole supply would be exhausted in 6 hours; or if 3 hours' full supply is maintained, as the Bill supposes, there would remain nearly a million gallons per hour to be distributed at low pressure. But the figures of the statement given above show that, according to the recognized formula, the houses valued at between Rs. 10 and Rs. 50 a month that are already connected are capable alone of consuming nearly double the maximum supply which the engines can deliver at 30 feet pressure. So that if it is obligatory to maintain a pressure of 30 feet for three hours daily, those houses could take off the whole day's supply in those 3 hours! If all the houses in the town which are already connected were similarly to use their power of taking water, they could take off the whole day's supply in less than one and a half hours!!

12. It need scarcely be said that with the engines and distributing pipes as they now are, this is not what can ever actually happen. All the houses in the town are not drawing water simultaneously, but so widespread is the habit of leaving taps open (and a single tap open in each house causes the ferrule to work at full discharge if a small one, with part of its full discharge if a large one) that it is calculated that at the hours when the water is most in request at least 60 per cent of the ferrules are working. Taking the capacity of the ferrules in round numbers at 12 million gallons an hour, at a pressure of 30 feet, it is easy to see what is the average pressure which each house will actually get if 60 per cent. of the ferrules are simultaneously working. If $2\frac{1}{2}$ million gallons are being delivered to ferrules capable of taking $7\frac{1}{2}$ million gallons at 30 feet pressure, the equation for determining the average pressure will be $3\sqrt{P} = \sqrt{30}$ or $P = \frac{30}{9} = 3\cdot3$ feet! Of course what actually happens is that the houses which are a fair distance apart and well situated as regards mains get a moderate pressure of 10 to 15 feet, and before the demand begins, or after it falls off, sometimes 30 feet, and thus take the whole of the supply; while the houses which are crowded together and situated unfavourably as regards the mains will get no supply at all, unless they take it at ground level. But if this must happen even with existing connections, what will it be if still more houses are connected at the same scale of ferrules? The following figures show the number of houses in the town of the different valuations, corresponding with the different ferrules, as compared with the number already connected.

13. It will be seen from these figures that while 3,340 out of 8,607 pucca houses, valued at above Rs. 50 a month, have been connected, nearly 9,000 pucca houses, mostly valued at less than Rs. 50 a month, remain to be connected. Many of these are impatient for connections as soon as permission can be obtained, and if this permission is given, the difficulty will be still greater than it already is.

14. If the assumption is made—which is not far from correct—that the several classes of houses which have command over water make approximately the same use of their command, we have the materials for comparing the relative consumption of water and payment made for it in each of these classes, as it is easy to determine the approximate average assessment of the houses in each class. This has been done in the statement below, and the further check applied of the known aggregate assessment of the entire town. Thus computed, the percentage of payment and of consumption of water in each class is approximately as follows:—

* Many of the houses now assessed at over Rs. 500 a month were given ferrules for a value of under Rs. 500.

	Connected houses under Rs. 5 a month	Water taken	PERCENTAGE OF—
			Payment made of water-rate
Unconnected houses	5	26
Connected houses under Rs. 100	"	3	2

" above "	300	10	8

15. The assumption made is if anything too favourable to the connected houses with low assessments; being relatively more thickly populated and having smaller ferrules, their inmates are probably more continuous in the use of them than are large buildings only inhabited for a part of the day; but allowing the assumption to stand, the result is still very instructive. Connected houses assessed at Rs. 100 to Rs. 300 a month get fully as much water as they pay for. The Port Commissioners and the large public buildings and other houses with high assessments pay for about twice as much water as they get. A large profit is made out of the water sold, especially that sold to the shipping, and the unconnected houses if they get their supply entirely from the standposts (an assumption which is only approximately correct) pay for five times as much as they consume. To make up for this, the connected houses, valued at less than Rs. 100 a month, consume from two to four times as much water as they pay for.

16. As the classes which occupy these houses are approximately the middle class of Calcutta, the figures given show that they have got enormously the best of the water-supply, not at the cost of the upper class who get a very fair supply also, but at the cost of the poorer classes who live in huts or unconnected houses, and at the cost of the offices, business houses, and public buildings. If this result did not lead to the ruin of the pressure, it would be comparatively a minor matter. Some class gets the best of all joint-arrangements in large towns, and indeed it has been claimed as a merit in the new Bill that in the removal of sewage the poor classes will benefit by the proposed uniform rate. In this instance unfortunately it is the poorest class which goes to the wall, and the class which has a very influential—probably the dominant—voice in the administration of Calcutta which derives the advantage, but even this would not be so intolerable if the arrangement would work; but as these figures conclusively show, it will not.

17. When the water-supply to the town was projected, the scheme was violently opposed by the Hindu community on the ground of religion. A distinguished member of this Council, the Hon'ble Kristo Das Pal wrote in 1865, a pamphlet strenuously opposing the project:—"I am willing to admit," he wrote, "that there may be a few educated and enlightened natives who may, without any objection, drink high pressure water, but how small is their number? and even they must continue to draw the usual supplies from the river for the females of their houses and for household purposes. But in taxing a community it is the duty of the authorities to look to the habits, wants, and wishes of the masses, and not to the convenience of a few; and in the interest of the mass of the native population of the town, I beg to declare that the imposition of a tax on them for a system of water-supply, of which they will not avail themselves, is the most intolerant measure that could be proposed by a civilised Government in Asia."

18. With such language before them, which was habitually re-echoed by the late Rajah Degumbar Mitter, and other distinguished leaders of Hindu society, it is natural that those who calculated the water-supply and fixed the size of the ferrules should not have foreseen the great run upon the water which subsequently set in. In the first year the connections were few, the draught of water accordingly was small, and a high pressure was easily maintained. By 1878 the connections had increased according to the annual report to 7,160,* and the impossibility of maintaining the pressure was admitted. From that year commenced the discussion which has continued up to the present time, of the relative merits of a continuous and of an intermittent supply, and of the feasibility of reducing the drain of water by the wholesale application of meters, or by close surveillance of the house consumption and rigorous prosecutions for waste. Briefly, it may be said that Dr. Macnamara and other experts condemned the intermittent system as unsuited to a tropical climate; that the expense no less than the harassment entailed by the wholesale use of meters has been regarded as fatal to that suggestion; while rigorous prosecutions for waste of water have been equally condemned. Moreover, it would be useless to prosecute for waste when the water which might be taken for use, though superabundant use, would equally ruin the pressure.

*Mr. Kimber, who has been examining the records, considers this an error, and reduces the number by about 20 per cent.

19. The history of the last 15 years is the history of an unavailing effort on the part of the Commissioners and their Engineers to overtake the increasing drain upon the supply by the increasing number of the connections through unduly liberal ferrules. The figures given convince me and will, I hope, convince the Committee and the intelligent public that with the ferrules we now have, all such efforts must be unavailing unless another hundred lakhs are to be spent on doubling the head works, the engine-power, and the size of the piping, and unless the maximum rate is raised from 6 to 12 per cent. The other remedy is to deprive the occupiers of connected houses of the command which they now have over the water, which they are shown to have exercised in such a manner as not only to take five or ten times as much water as they are paying for, but also to prevent others getting their legal supply. Many persons who know that they themselves get a very poor supply, will receive the statement with some scepticism, and will imagine that what is proposed is tantamount to still further reducing the driblet which they now get; but they should understand that the effect will be just the opposite. We are now delivering 25 gallons of filtered water per head every day to the people of Calcutta; many of them have the greatest difficulty in obtaining a quarter of that quantity, but the reason is that, say, 5,000 to 6,000 houses are in a position to take more than 100 gallons per head and do so, and the measures which will take away this power from them, will preserve the water for those who now get too little.

20. It seems to me that the new Act should contain two provisions if the water-supply is to be improved—first, as the best possible proof that the Commissioners are in no way resiling from the obligations which they have undertaken, to double the supply which they guarantee to give for every rupee of water-rate. We are only now obliged to give 1,500 gallons per rupee. If in future we undertake to give 3,000 gallons, it will effectually cut the ground from under the feet of all who claim to be aggrieved. They will be guaranteed double what they have hitherto been entitled to: if therefore they are losers it can only be because they have hitherto been taking more than double what was their due.

21. The second step needful is to insist on such a revision of the ferrules as will admit of the pressure being maintained. Mr. Kimber estimates the cost of changing the ferrules at Rs. 50,000. Even if it comes up to a lac, it will be nothing compared with the outlay necessary to meet the difficulty in any other way. I suggest the following scale of ferrules based on the existing system. It shows the maximum drain per hour as compared with the present maximum, and also the number of minutes at which the ferrule will have to be working at a 10 feet pressure in order to yield the supply which the occupiers of the house are entitled to.—

22. It will be seen that, omitting the houses valued at above Rs. 20,000, the most unfavourably valued house in the town, viz., one valued monthly at Rs. 99-12, will be able in less than four hours of low pressure to get the full supply to which it is entitled, and if it takes water at high pressure, in much less than that time. The maximum draught per minute at high pressure with the existing connections will be reduced from 203,643 gallons to 75,030 or by nearly two-thirds. With every ferrule working simultaneously, the draughts per hour would be 4,555,00 against an engine-power of 2,604,784 gallons only, and nearly 80 per cent. increase must be allowed for new connections. Still it may reasonably be expected that with the improvement of the pressure the habit of keeping taps open will somewhat decline, and if so, there is a fair probability of maintaining the stipulated pressure, if this reduction is carried out.

23. It may be that some houses will still be so disadvantageously situated that their ferrules according to this scale will not give them the 8,000 gallons per rupee to which they are entitled, and I would therefore add a clause that any house which is so situated that a ferrule, according to the prescribed scale, will not give it the supply to which it is entitled in 1½ hours of high and 5½ hours of low pressure, shall be entitled to a ferrule of such size as will give it its supply within this period.

H. L. HARRISON.

The 6th March 1888.

Minute of Dissent by the Hon. G. IRVING.

The following are the main points on which I am, I regret, unable to concur with the majority of my colleagues:—

Section 38.—The right of appeal to the Government of India under this section against the Local Government appears to me to be unnecessary and ill-advised. The Local Government is, I think, the proper controlling authority of municipal administration. In the Select Committee's Report it is said that "the discretion and forbearance of the Government constitute the best guarantee which can be given to the Corporation against a hasty and injudicious use of this power." I fully agree with that view. But there will always remain the general power of appeal to the Imperial Government on any point of sufficient importance to warrant that extreme course.

Chapter IV, Section 106, Consolidated Rate.

I desire to enter my protest against the apportionment of the consolidated rate. Under the present Act, the maximum which the tenant can be called upon to pay is 9½ per cent. as against 11½ per cent. payable by the landlord, and I hold that that ratio should be maintained, the tenant always paying 2 per cent. less than the landlord. Rentals in Calcutta have been adjusted to that scale, and executive convenience is not a sufficient reason for destroying the proportion. The halalkhor rate at 2 per cent. imposed by section 141 payable by tenants makes no proper adjustment of the difference; for while admitting that the halalkhor service should be paid for whether it is rendered by a staff of municipal mehters or by the use of the city sewers, it should be borne in mind that connected houses pay a better rental than unconnected ones; therefore, the tenants of connected houses already pay the landlords for the convenience enjoyed by the use of the sewers. Hence the new rate, instead of adjusting the inequality in the division of the rate, enhances the evil and further burdens the tenants of connected houses.

While I do not oppose the halalkhor rate, I submit that the imposition of that rate is not a legitimate means of arriving at an equal apportionment of the consolidated rate. With the maximum rate at 23 per cent. the proper proportion would be—tenants 10½ per cent. and landholders 12½ per cent.

Chapter VII.—Water-supply—Section 153.

In regard to the pressure that should be kept up in the water-supply, I am constrained to adhere to the position I took up in my minute of dissent on the Bill when it was last published. The saving clause in the section "so far as may be reasonably practicable," when applied to the moderate pressure prescribed of 30 feet only, and that for the very limited period of two hours in the forenoon and one hour in the afternoon, seems to be unwarranted and I think it should be struck out. Sir Henry Harrison's note on the water-supply, which accompanies the report of the Select Committee, demonstrates that the pressure can easily be maintained provided that the supply is properly controlled and distributed. It is, therefore, I think, imperative that the very moderate requirements as to pressure should be of an unmistakeably definite character.

Chapter X, Part 1—Of Streets.

It is, in my opinion, a grave omission in this chapter that a minimum width for new streets and lanes is not laid down. A provision of this vital character should surely not be relegated to a bye-law. With regard to the condition of some portions of the northern town, Mr. Cotton, late Officiating Chairman of the Corporation, says "The superabundance of narrow lanes in the respectable inhabited portion of the city is an intolerable nuisance." With this state of things before the authorities, it is to be hoped that a similar condition will not be allowed to arise in the southern part of the town, though nothing is more likely, especially in the localities adjacent to the new docks, if immediate measures are not taken to prevent it.

Chapter XII, Section 324.

Confining the powers of the Commissioners to removing male persons only to hospital who may be suffering from a dangerous disease, and who are without proper lodging or accommodation, is, I think, a mistake. The removal of any but the poor and badly-housed is not contemplated, and it cannot for a moment be supposed that here is any danger of interference with zenana ladies in the action of a Corporation largely composed of native representatives. It should not, however, be forgotten that there is a large female labouring class in Calcutta, and for the welfare and comfort of these in dangerous sickness, as well as for the safety of the town, the section should apply irrespective of sex.

GEO. IRVING.

Note of Dissent by the Hon. GOOROO DASS BANERJEE.

I HAVE signed the final report of the Select Committee on the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Bill subject to reservations. I regret I cannot agree with my colleagues on many points. I shall here briefly note the most important of these with the reasons for my dissent.

Section 2. Definition of Calcutta.—My amendment to the effect that there be no amalgamation of the Town with the Suburbs of Calcutta, and that the present boundaries of Calcutta be retained, having been rejected by the Council, the only question now open to consideration is whether we should adopt the comprehensive boundary given in the Bill, or a more restricted one. I am strongly in favour of the latter alternative, and for this simple reason: considering the limited resources of the proposed new Municipality, the larger the area of the Suburbs we can conveniently leave out, the better will it be for the improvement of the area we take in. And I would recommend that out of the Suburban area proposed to be incorporated with the Town, at least a portion on the south-east be excluded, namely, the portion bounded on the north by the Tiljullah Road, the Ballygunj Circular Road, the Puddopukur Road, the Pakurtola Road, and the Chalputty Road, and on the west by Tolly's Nullah. We may conveniently leave out this area, as the greater portion of it is scarcely of an urban character.

Section 38.—The provisions of this section are, I think, open to objection. There can be no question as to the necessity of the Government having control, but such control should, I submit, be exercised only in extreme cases, that is, only in cases of gross and serious neglect by the Corporation of their duties relating to public safety and public health. The scope of the section should, I think, be limited to cases of neglect of duties relating to public safety and health. There should also be express provision for giving the Corporation an opportunity of defending themselves. It is quite true, as the Select Committee observe, that "the discretion and forbearance of the Government constitute the best guarantee which can be given to the Corporation against a hasty and injudicious use of this power," but it is equally true, I venture to think, that for an important public body like the Calcutta Corporation, their own good sense and the control exercised by public opinion are ordinarily sufficient to keep them up to their duty. And if it is necessary to provide against neglect of duty by the Corporation in exceptional cases, I would respectfully submit that it is desirable also to provide against injudicious or hasty interference in any case.

It may not be out of place here to observe that with the enlarged scheme of duties prescribed by section 37 of the Bill, and with the heavy burden thrown upon the Corporation by the amalgamation of a large additional area, without any adequate funds being placed at their disposal, the Corporation would remain constantly and unavoidably liable to be proceeded against under this section, unless its provisions are qualified at least in the way indicated above.

Section 122.—The provisions of this section relating to the valuation of houses not built for letting purposes, and not ordinarily let, are objectionable on the following amongst other grounds:—

In the first place the difficulty of ascertaining the cost of building and the amount to be deducted on account of depreciation in the case of an old house will be much greater than that of ascertaining the rent at which it may be reasonably expected to let.

In the second place the proposed rule will be productive of great hardship, as it would lead to taxing owners of dwelling-houses according to an arbitrary standard which is very often greatly in excess of their expected possible income derivable from those houses, and which often gives an exaggerated idea of the extent of their means. A native dwelling-house, it is well known, would seldom let for anything like five per cent. on the cost price (see the case of Nundloll Bose v. the Corporation of Calcutta, reported in Indian Law Reports, XI, Calcutta Series, page 275). Nor is the cost price of a native dwelling-house (with deduction for depreciation) any criterion as to the extent of the owner's means. It may have come to him (as is often the case) by inheritance, and may be a burden rather than a benefit. And if he does not part with it readily, it is out of deference to a prevailing sentiment which we cannot ignore. Again, a Hindu may own a larger and more expensive house, not because he has greater means, but because he has a larger family. And though the great English economist cited in the report of the Select Committee may say that 'having a larger family is at a person's choice,' no one possessing the slightest knowledge of our society can say the same thing for a Hindu.

Section 204.—Clauses (b) and (c) of this section are open to grave objection. The Commissioners may, no doubt, acquire land for any public purpose. But it is more than doubtful whether they should be allowed to acquire land for the sole purpose of selling it at a profit. If the raising of their funds in this way be a public purpose, carried to its legitimate consequences, the doctrine would be subversive of the institution of private property.

It may be said that land in the immediate neighbourhood of a new road is greatly benefited by such road, and if the former owners are allowed to retain the same, they would derive benefit at the expense of the public, and without paying for it. But it should be borne in mind that they do pay for the improvement by contributing as rate-payers to the funds of the Corporation; and they are entitled to these incidental advantages as persons composing the public for whose benefit professedly new roads are opened.

Sections 208 and 235.—The provisions of these sections, so far as they relate to refusal of sanction to build on a site falling within the regular lines of a projected street, are, I think, open to objection. A projected street may not become a reality in fifty years, and it would be unjust to make the site useless to the owner for building purposes, it may be, for a long time before he gets compensation for it. I think there ought, at least, to be some provision entitling the owner of such site to some compensation if the projected street is not opened within a reasonable time (to be fixed by law) from the date of refusal of sanction to build.

Section 320.—This section will operate as a great hardship on the poor. I think its operation ought at least to be limited to the case of houses let out to tenants.

Section 324.—The provisions of this section may, I fear, lead to interference with the religious sentiments of the people. With every regard for health, I think the consent of the patient should, in all cases in which he is able to give it, be taken before his removal to a hospital.

There are many other provisions of the Bill which appear to me to be objectionable. I shall refer to them when the Bill comes on for discussion before the Council.

GOOROODASS BANERJEE

The 12th March 1888.

MINUTE OF DISSENT.

I object that I cannot concur in the views of the majority of my colleagues in regard to—

- (1) The provision in section 38 of a right of appeal to the Government of India against the controlling action of the Local Government.
- (2) The provisions in sections 99 and 100 regarding the prohibition of the introduction of petroleum into Calcutta for the purpose of storage, if it is intended for consumption elsewhere, and the levy of a tax on petroleum introduced for local consumption.

I object to the first provision on the ground that it is unusual and unnecessary. I conceive that for the purpose of controlling and regulating Municipal administration the "Government" is the Local Government, and that it is not the province of the local Legislature to prescribe the method in which that Government shall be controlled by the Imperial Government in the discharge of its administrative functions. This is a matter of internal discipline on which, it seems to me, the Council cannot pronounce, and should not be called upon to pronounce. Nor is such a provision necessary to protect the Corporation, should it feel aggrieved at any action of the Local Government. The Local Government is just as much bound to obey an executive order of the Governor-General in Council as it would be bound to obey a legal order, or as the Imperial Government is bound to accept the decision of the Secretary of State. I can conceive no good purpose which this provision can serve, while I see many objections to it.

The provisions regarding petroleum involve the imposition of an Octroi duty on this article. I will briefly state my objections to them, leaving the wider discussion to the debate which will be held in Council.

In the various declarations on the subject of Octroi, which have been made by the Government of India, two points have always been insisted upon. The first is that no goods which have already paid sea customs duty shall be taxed. The second is that the general course of trade shall not be interfered with.

As regards the first point, I am aware that the orders of 1868 were subsequently modified so as to admit of the levy of a limited tax on piece-goods and metals. It will of course be in the power of the Government to exempt petroleum now as they exempted piece-goods then. But, as the case stands, we are asked, by the majority of my colleagues, to approve a provision which is opposed to the declared policy of Government, and which may lead to the Governor-General's sanction to the Act being withheld.

As regards the second point, the particular evil which was apprehended, and which Sir John Strachey's Bill of 1879 was designed to prevent, was that the Octroi tax would be so administered as to operate as a transit duty, and that important general interests would be sacrificed to local improvements. Now I admit that the proposed section 99 guards very effectually against interference with trade in this respect; but it guards against interference in one form only by necessitating interference in another form. Before the tax can be levied, the Local Government must prohibit the introduction into Calcutta, except in transit, of any petroleum not intended for local consumption. Petroleum intended for consumption elsewhere must not be stored in Calcutta. Here we have petroleum for the interior exempted from the Calcutta Octroi by being excluded from Calcutta altogether. I grant that the establishment of the Petroleum dépôt at Budge-Budge, and the construction of a line connecting it with the general railway system, will render it possible to send consignments into the interior direct from the wharf. But the trade in mineral oil is making very rapid strides, and it seems to me an unwarrantable interference with trade to prohibit the storage of petroleum anywhere within the large area which will now be included in Calcutta, and thus prevent Calcutta from becoming a distributing centre for this important article of commerce, in order that the Municipality may be able to claim that all oil breaking bulk within the limits of the town must be intended for local consumption, and therefore be liable to tax.

But my chief ground of dissent is to the levy of an Octroi duty in Calcutta at all. In the first place, even if the prohibition against storage before export were justifiable, I can see no argument that can be used in favour of an Octroi on petroleum that could not be used in favour of an Octroi on other articles. I am not here discussing the propriety of levying minute town dues on all articles introduced, for sale or storage, into large trading centres, on the principle on which dues are levied for the use of a market or a hat. The arguments for and against such a proposal are of a different nature from those which affect this question. I am dealing only with an Octroi on articles locally consumed. Take salt. It pays duty and is discharged under supervision. An Octroi could be levied as easily on it as on petroleum. It would be as easy and as convenient to enforce a prohibition against its storage, except for local consumption, as it would be to enforce such a prohibition in regard to petroleum. Take coal. It is bulky; it comes by rail or by sea; it could easily be made the subject of an Octroi tax. And so on with other articles.

My first objection, then, under this part of my argument, is that, if the levy of an Octroi on petroleum is allowed, a refusal to extend it to other articles could not well be justified. It cannot be restricted to one article. My second objection is that, if it is allowed in Calcutta, it cannot fairly be refused elsewhere. It cannot be restricted to one place.

If an Octroi is allowed in Calcutta, why should it not be allowed in Howrah? If in Howrah, why not in Patna, Dacca and Chittagong? If in these towns, why not in every Municipality in the Province? Now, when the question was discussed in 1868, every Commissioner in Bengal, with one single exception, reported strongly against the establishment of an Octroi system as entirely unsuited to the circumstances of Bengal. The introduction of such a system has been denounced by Sir Cecil Beaton, by Sir William Grey, by Sir Ashley Eden, by Mr. Mackenzie, and by others who have taken part in the government of this Province, and have been qualified to judge of its requirements. Even in the North-Western Provinces and in Bombay, where the towns are differently constructed from the congeries of villages which form our Bengal Municipalities, objections to the system were strongly urged by Sir John Strachey and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce. To admit an Octroi in the open straggling towns of Bengal would be a calamity to their inhabitants, and would, I am convinced, seriously discredit Municipal Self-Government. It could only be administered by an army of agents whose first thought would be to enrich themselves, and whose last thought would be the interests of their employers or the convenience of the people.

I regret to have to dissent from any proposal which has the object of increasing the resources of the new Corporation in dealing with the heavy task before it. But I cannot accept a provision which I believe to be opposed to one of the wisest principles of our administration.

COLMAN MACAULAY.

The 10th March 1888.

I EXPRESS my dissent as regards (1) the right of appeal to the Government of India and (2) the imposition of an Octroi duty on petroleum which I consider totally unsuitable in Calcutta.

Provided also that the Commissioners may at their own expense replace any ferrule, used for the supply of water to any house at the time when this Act comes into force which is of larger size than the occupier of such house under such scale is entitled to use, by a ferrule of the size prescribed under such scale for the use of such house.

Provided also that the Commissioners shall be at liberty to cut off the supply of water to any house or land during the time the said house or land is unoccupied.

Such form shall require a ground plan of the hut drawn to the scale of eight feet to the inch and such other details as the Commissioners may prescribe. On receipt of such notice, the Commissioners shall, within thirty days, express their approval of the proposed work, or their disapproval on any one or more of the following grounds:—

- (f) That the plinth is not two feet above the level of the centre of the nearest street.
- (g) That the erection of the proposed hut will infringe some specified bye-law made under this Act.

If the proposal is approved of, the hut may be built, re-built, or added to at any time within six months after the date of sanction. If it is disapproved of on any of the grounds above stated, the work shall not be commenced till such modifications have been made in the plan of the proposed hut as the Commissioners may deem necessary.

248. If any hut be built, re-built, or added to without giving the Commissioners such notice as is required by the last preceding section, or before the approval of the Commissioners has been obtained under that section, the Commissioners may cause such hut or so much of it as has been constructed to be demolished or altered in such manner as they may prescribe; and the expenses of such demolition or alteration shall be paid by the person failing to comply with the provisions of this Act.

249. The Commissioners may, in addition to, or in lieu of, exercising the powers conferred on them by section two hundred and forty-eight, prosecute any person who builds, re-builds, or adds to any hut in contravention of the provisions of section two hundred and forty-seven, and such person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 100 for any such offence, and to a further fine not exceeding Rs. 20 for every day

Provided that the sum payable in respect of compensation shall not exceed Re. 1 per diem.

251. The Commissioners may define the external limits of any bustee, and may from time to time modify such limits; and for the purposes of this Act, land comprised within such limits shall be deemed to be a bustee:

Provided that every bustee shall consist of one or more complete plots of bustee land, separately numbered as such in the assessment book, and no plot bearing only one number shall be divided so as to fall within the limits of separate bustees. The existence of one or more houses with the land attached thereto, within the limits defined as above, shall be no bar to the bustee lands within such limits being deemed to be a bustee: Provided that the Commissioners shall have no power under this Part of exercising any control over such houses and land attached, except by acquiring the whole or any portion of them by purchase or under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, or any similar Act for the time being in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

252. The Commissioners may at any time serve a notice upon the bustee owners to owners of a bustee, calling upon them to prepare a joint plan thereof to the scale of forty feet to the inch showing the manner in which such bustee should be laid out with the huts standing in regular lines and with a free passage in front of and behind each line of such width as may be necessary for ventilation and for scavenging. The plan shall also show the proposed drains of the bustee, the water-supply, bathing arrangements (if any) and the privy accommodation to be provided for the use of the tenants, the roads which are to be maintained for their benefit, the land, if any, which is to be kept as common land, the tanks which are to be filled up or conserved, and any other proposed improvements.

Such plan, when prepared as above, shall be considered by the Commissioners, and such modifications shall be made therein as the Commissioners shall require. After any plan has been finally approved of by the Commissioners, it shall be taken as the standard plan of the bustee. If any land within the limits of a bustee is not bustee land, the standard plan shall be so prepared as clearly to distinguish it from the bustee land.

When a call has been made on the owners of the bustee to prepare a joint plan under this section, no hut shall be built, re-built, or added to within the bustee till a standard plan has been prepared.

253. If the owners of a bustee cannot agree among themselves in the preparation of a joint plan, or if they for any reason prefer to have a joint plan prepared for them by the Commissioners, or if they fail to comply with the notice to submit a joint plan within the space of sixty days, the Commissioners shall, within a further period of sixty days, themselves prepare a plan to the scale and in the manner prescribed above, for which they may charge the owners at such rate not exceeding Rs. 3 per bigah as the Commissioners in meeting may fix. The cost of preparing such plan may be recovered as a rate under this Act.

254. When a plan has been prepared by the Commissioners under the last preceding section, they shall fix a day for the hearing of objections on the part of the owners; and may at their discretion modify the plan in accordance with any objections made. When the objections have been disallowed, or when the plan has been modified in conformity with any objections raised, it shall be approved of by the Commissioners, and shall thereafter be taken as the standard plan of the bustee.

255. When a standard plan has been prepared for any bustee under sections two hundred and fifty-two or two hundred and fifty-four, no hut shall be built, re-built, or added to in such bustee, unless the hut or the portion to be added occupies a site, or portion of a site marked as the site for a hut in the standard plan. The Commissioners may, at any time by paying compensation to the owner of any hut not in conformity with the standard plan, require him to take down his hut and re-build it in conformity with such plan. Such compensation shall, in the event of dispute, be determined in the manner provided in this Act for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

The Commissioners may at any time serve notice upon the owners of any bustee, calling upon them to construct the roads, privies, drains, and other details shown in the standard plan of any bustee, so far as may be practicable in the existing arrangement of the huts, and if any tank is shown as to be filled up or improved, may call upon the owner to improve or fill up such tank. Till such notice is complied with, the Commissioners may refuse to sanction the building or re-building of any hut in the bustee, or any addition to any existing hut.

256. When a bustee has been brought into conformity with a standard plan which has been prepared for it, it shall be deemed to be a remodelled bustee.

257. When it appears to the Commissioners in meeting that any bustee is, by reason of the manner in which the huts are crowded together, or for any other reason, in such an insanitary condition that the procedure provided by sections two hundred and fifty-two to two hundred and fifty-six will be too dilatory for improving such bustee, they may cause it to be inspected by two medical officers who shall make a report in writing on the sanitary condition of the said bustee.

Such report shall be accompanied by a plan which shall be approved of by the medical officers as a proper standard plan of the bustee, and they shall certify which of the changes necessary to bring the bustee into conformity with the

263. No standard plan, prepared under sections two hundred and fifty-two, two hundred and fifty-three, two hundred and fifty-seven, or two hundred and sixty-eight shall, without the consent of the owners, show more than one-fifth of the area of the bustee as roads or more than two-thirds as open lands not to be built upon, whether such open land be common ground, roads, or spaces behind a line of huts, but no tank that is not filled up shall be taken into account in calculating the above proportion. The proposed standard plan shall also, as far as possible, provide for one or more huts being completely contained in each separate plot of bustee land within the bustee and for a due proportion of roadway and open ground in each plot; and if a greater portion of any one plot is taken for roads or open ground than the proportion allowed by this section, the compensation which should be paid to the owner of this plot and the persons who should pay such compensation by reason of their benefiting thereby shall be specified; if no other owner can be equitably called upon to pay such compensation, it shall be paid by the Commissioners. The Commissioners may, instead of selling or letting the land acquired by them as aforesaid, themselves bring the bustee into conformity with such standard plan.

The Commissioners shall be bound to sell or lease such land in the manner aforesaid, or themselves to carry out such sanctioned improvement as is above described within the term of four years from the date of their acquiring such land, unless the Local Government shall specially extend such term.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

THE following Bill was introduced and read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, and referred to a Select Committee, on the 7th April, 1888, and is hereby published for information:—

A Bill to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Bengal Act III of 1884: It is hereby Preamble enacted as follows:—

1. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, Bengal Act III of 1884; and it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

2. To section 9, the following proviso shall be added:—

“Provided that the Local Government may, at any time, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, exclude any lands or buildings in the occupation of Government for Military or Naval purposes from the limits of any municipality any lands or buildings in the occupation of Government for Military or Naval purposes”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

UNDER sections 190 and 191 of Act III of 1884, the Bengal Municipal Act, the Commissioners of a Municipality have power to inspect all drains, and, after notice, to enter upon all premises for this purpose. The Commissioners of a Municipality claimed to exercise this right in regard to a Government Gunpowder Factory. It was held that the exercise of the right in such a case would be dangerous, and it was proposed to exclude the Gunpowder Factory premises from the limits of the Municipality. Under section 9 of the Act the Local Government has power to alter the limits of a Municipality, only on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, and in this instance the Commissioners declined to make the recommendation. It is considered desirable that Government should have the power of excluding of its own motion from the operation of Municipal Regulations, lands and buildings in the occupation of the State for Military and Naval purposes and the object of this Bill is to amend section 9 of the Act accordingly.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was introduced and read the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and regulations, and referred to a Select Committee the 5th May, 1888, with instructions to report thereon at the next sitting of the Council, and is hereby published for information :—

1. Bill to amend the Howrah Bridge Act, 1871.
WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to remit the payment of the fees and charges levied under the provisions of the Howrah Bridge Act of 1871; and whereas, under the provisions of the said Act, the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta have from time to time invested the surplus income arising from the tolls, fees and charges levied for the use of the Howrah Bridge in the purchase in their corporate name of Government securities, and the money so invested together with interest thereon now amount to a sum of Rs. 5,50,000: and whereas it is expedient to empower the said Commissioners to transfer such portion of the said Government securities as will represent a sum not exceeding Rs. 2,00,000 to the Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta, and to further amend Bengal Act IX of 1871: It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called by the title: "the Howrah Bridge Act Amendment Act, 1888."

2. It shall be read with, and taken as part of, Bengal Act IX of 1871; and it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

3. For the proviso to section 3, the following proviso shall be substituted :—

"Provided always that such tolls, fees and charges shall not exceed the respective rates mentioned in the said schedule, and that it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor from time to time to exempt all or any passengers, animals, vehicles and goods using or conveyed on the said Bridge from payment of the tolls, fees and charges prescribed in the said schedule."

"Provided also that the said Lieutenant-Governor may, from time to time, re-impose the payment of the fees on any goods or any passengers which may have been exempted from such payment under this section."

5. After section 18, the following section shall be added :—

18A. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act to the contrary, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta portion of surplus income to the Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta to sell such portion of the Government securities purchased in their corporate name under the provisions of section eighteen as shall represent a sum of Rs. 2,00,000, and with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal transfer the said sum of Rs. 2,00,000 realized upon such sale to the Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta, to be applied by such last-mentioned Commissioners to such purposes and in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor shall, by a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, direct."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

UNDER section 22 of Act IX of 1871, an Act for the construction of a Bridge across the Hooghly between Howrah and Calcutta, it is prescribed that, after the repayment of all sums advanced by Government for the construction of the bridge and its approaches and the formation of a sufficient reserve fund, the Lieutenant-Governor shall so regulate the scale of fees, tolls and charges that the income derivable from them shall not exceed the expenditure. The debt to Government has now been repaid, a sufficient reserve fund has been formed, and there is a surplus of income to be disposed of. The Lieutenant-Governor accordingly appointed a Committee to report upon the measures by which the income derivable from the fees, tolls and charges should be reduced, and the surplus disposed of. Under section 3 tolls must be levied for the use of the Bridge, and under section 18 all surplus of income must be expended for some of the purposes of the Act. The Committee have recommended that all tolls levied for the use of the bridge under section 3 should be remitted, and that of the surplus a sum of two lakhs of rupees should be granted to the Calcutta Municipality for expenditure on a new road to connect the Bridge with the Sealdah Railway Station. The object of this Bill is to enable the Lieutenant-Governor to give effect to these recommendations.
